HARE-HOPS SHOOTING

When the skift o' snow comes, siftin' through the dogwoods in the dells—and the chores is goin' a-beggin' on the farm—there's a world of inspiration in a pocketful of shells, with "Old Betsey" in the holler of my arm. . . . For, I know the hare-hop snoozes in the checkerberry glade, where the average mortal seldom interferes—but he'll change his fool opinion after my respecks is paid, as I plug him jest an inch below the ears! . . . When it comes to healthy livin' as a question fer debate, or the pastime that affords the sweetest charm,—the solidest foundation fer a superanuate, is the joy of shootin' hare-hops on the farm! There's nothin' else can beat it fer producin' appetite, and addin' prime digestion to the same. . . . If the left-hand barrel misses, you can stop 'em with yer right,—a motto that applies to any game.

AN OLD LADY'S DOG

THE other day an old lady stopped at the home of the writer and admired a dog she saw there. The old lady, just about a year ago, lost her husband. She lived alone and conditions for her were bad. In truth poverty haunted her always, but she struggled bravely on. She had a little brown dog and the two were very fond of each other. They were so much together they got to understand the whims of each other and seemed to be unhappy unless they were together. Last week the little dog picked up some poison and died. The old lady, bereft of husband and without friends now goes home to an empty house. She hasn't even the welcome the little dog so lovingly bestowed upon her. The dog was the lone guard, companion and true friend of the aged woman and he wasn't doing anyone any harm, probably the little fellow was hungry the day he picked up the poisoned meat, but, still, they had to kill him. The little, old lady will grieve for her companion and the one who put out the poison, perhaps, will never know just how much sorrow he caused and, if he does learn, he will justify himself, in his own mind, by arguing, "I did not put the poison out for the old lady's dog."

Really it's too bad.

COME ON! TRY IT.

IT would not take a great deal, if everyone did his or her part, to make Ukiah a lovely home city. Nature, surely, has done her full share. We are blessed with wonderful trees, the valley about us is fertile, we have the lovely Russian river and you simply cannot beat the climate. We grow great crops, cattle and sheep do well here and our forests are the greatest in the world, but we do have some sorry looking premises about some of the houses in Ukiah. Why not get busy and fix the fence, tear down the old barn or outhouse; paint the house and the garage; fix the gate; start a lawn; see that some bright colored flowers are set out; remove the ashpile and mountain of cans and rubbish.

Of course, one can assert the premises they occupy are their own and they can do with them as they see fit, but it would be surprising to know how much pleasure you would get out of the work if you hustled in and gave your home a real going over along the above lines.

Just try it once.

IT'S THE SWIMMING TANK

WE are going to get the playground, of course. That is settled, but we want a swimming tank. It serves no good purpose to say that, because you did not happen to have a swimming tank when a kid, the boys and girls of today can get along without one. Life's journey is made but once and why not let the boys and girls have all the clean fun out of it they can possibly get when they are kids? Soon enough they will have grown up and the hard knocks of the world will have to be endured by them. It's a whole lot better to have the boys and girls where you know they will do no harm than to trust to luck and let them run wild. As a preacher the writer would make a dandy brickmason, but he is old fashioned enough to believe that the sunshine of childhood should be made as bright as possible and accordingly financially and with The Press he is ready to do his full share for the boys and girls of the town. Give the kids a place to play, let them have a swimming tank and, if there is anything else that will make for their betterment, let's get it for them.

THE DOPE USER

EVERYTHING possible in the way of aid and encouragement that can be done to assist the officers who are trying to stamp out the use of narcotics at Fort Bragg should be done. This page wants you to read the story elsewhere in The Press telling of the frightful plight of the witness Pickett and then ask yourself if men and women who sell narcotics should not be dealt with so severely as to make others who would become dope peddlers so fearful of what might happen to them, if caught, they will be afraid to start selling morphine, cocaine or opium. The Press, after a fashion, has been accused of over-stating dope conditions at Fort Bragg, but the truth of the matter is this newspaper has under-stated what it knows of the frightful plight of some of the fiends in that city. This much can be said: If the officers continue with the arrests and trials take place a condition too horrible to print will be related from the witness stand. There is not one single good thing than can be said in favor of a dope peddler and the sheriff who arrests, the district attorney who prosecutes and the judge who passes sentence upon a distributor of soul-destroying drugs should expect and should have the solid support of the taxpayers.

HE WAS A MODEST CUSS

Secretary of Labor, James Davis, says an unusually loquacious local politician in Indiana was convicted of appropriating something that did not belong to him. He was sentenced to jail for two years. His old habit of making a speech upon any and all occasions did not desert him when he was led behind the big iron gates. Walking up to a group of prisoners in the mess hall he said: "I assure you gentlemen, the place has sought me, and not I the place. My own affairs really demand all my time and attention, and I may truly say that my selection to fill this position was an entire surprise. Had I consulted my own interests, I should have peremptorily declined to serve; but as I am in the hands of my friends, I see no other course but to submit."

THE RULING PASSION

Six men, sole survivors of a wreck, were cast upon a desert island where they abode for some months, till a man-of-war took them off. In his log the captain of the warship noted the racial characteristics of the six thus:

The two Irishmen had fought every day for the whole time of their sojourn.

The two Englishmen had not spoken to each other because they had not been properly introduced.

The two Scots had started a Caledonian society.—Glasgow Herald.

A TALL ARGUMENT

An argument was in progress, Private Smart claimed that the tallest man was in his regiment, while Private White upheld his own regiment's claims.

"Why," said the first, "we've a chap in our lot who can light a cigarette from a lamp post."

"That's nothing," replied the other. "A fellow in my company's so tall that he has to kneel down when he wants to put his hands in his pockets."—Pittsburgh Sun.

GOING TOO FAR

(Mendocino Beacon)

Jokes are jokes but not when carried to excess. On Tuesday evening last while Prof. Coale's car was parked on the street some one released the air from three tires, but not satisfied with that they carried off or threw away the inner sections of the valves, so that the car could not be got home until new parts were secured, requiring an hour or more. Recently a car parked outside at Caspar was tampered with and some parts removed and adjustments broken and the owner was a week or more getting it in running order again. A serious accident may result from such work. In the future prosecution will probably result for such acts.

Potter Valley Had Big Grange Night

(Press Special Service)

Potter Valley, March 10, 1923.

Wednesday night of last week, the store of Irvine and Muir was entered by some person who evidently intended to break into the safe. The would-be burglar was frightened before his work was accomplished and no harm was done, except some damage to the dial. He entered through a window by breaking the glass. A small amount of cash was taken from the till, and a few articles of wearing apparel are missing. No arrests have been made although the sheriff is working on the case. This is the second time this store has been entered during the last few months.

Play Took Well

The play, "Mr. Bob," was presented by the senior class of the high school last Wednesday evening to a large and appreciative audience. All the characters were well sustained by the following cast: Marian Wright (Mr. Bob), Ethel Hardisty; Katherine, her friend, Esther Sinclair; Aunt Becky, Leona Dashiell; Patty, Irma Gillespie; Philip Baybert Brush; Mr. Brown, Lyle Bucknell; Jenkins, Clifford Gillespie.

Big Class Initiated

Potter Valley Grange, at the meeting last Saturday evening, gave the final initiatory degrees to a class of thirteen. The work was impressively done by the ladies' degree team with Mrs. Jas. Eddie as master. The new members are: Bert Brock, Mrs. Helen Ingels, Grover C. Hunter, Eleanor Dougherty, Kenneth Busch, Frieda Price, E. F. Harvey, Margaret Frasier, Mrs. Elva Pickle, Herbert Pickle, Lottie Gillespie, Theo. Gillespie and Lois Harvey. After the meeting tamales and coffee were served in the banquet room after which a social dance lasted until midnight.

Going To Ukiah

The furnishings and remaining stock are being moved from the local store of Shattusk & Hopkins to their new quarters in Ukiah. Their many friends and customers in our valley regret to see them leave, but wish them every success in their new field.

The funeral of the late John Busch, in Ukiah on last Saturday, was largely attended by friends and relatives from Potter valley.

The Potter Progress Club will meet next Saturday at the home of Mrs. Laura Lierly. As it will be on St. Patricks day the members are requested to come prepared to respond to roll call with an Irish story or quotation.

Mrs. A. McDonough, mother of the late Mrs. Chas. Neil arrived last Saturday to remain indefinitely with her grand daughters, Martha and Muriel Neil.

"Buck Passing" Is Not Approved

(Press Special Service)

Ukiah, March 11, 1923.

The Central farm center held its regular meeting Friday evening last. There was a good attendance, and matters pertaining to farmers' interests were disposed of. One of these of great interest and importance is the matter of additional taxation. A resolution was unanimously passed that the center is uncompromisingly opposed to having any governmental activities heretofore carried on by the state shifted onto the counties, as this would certainly result in an increase of local taxes. They freely expressed themselves as seeing no economy in shifting expenses from the state onto the counties. The secretary was instructed to inform Senator Handy and Assemblyman Connolly of the action taken.

Many Women Attend

This was social evening, and when business was finished all present entered fully into the enjoyment of the evening. An encouraging feature was the presence of so many farmers' wives and children, the bringing of these out being the main object of the event. Refreshments were served in abundance, and a radio equipment installed, so there was, in addition to sociability, song and music, a concert in Los Angeles furnishing these. The evening was altogether enjoyable, and none of the adverse features of social effort in connection with farm center work heretofore reported by some, could be seen. The social committee received the thanks of the center, and many expressed the hope of another community get-together.

New Management Will Try To Please

House Manager W. J. Roberts, of The State Theatre, is rapidly bringing the local amusement house to the front. Already there is a marked improvement in service, the cleanliness has been commented upon and many little features, lacking in the past, are appearing. Talking to The Press Mr. Roberts said: "I am here to give service of a satisfactory kind and that will be what I shall strive for always. I am open, ever, to suggestions and will welcome them."

Only One Price

Starting last week a new price schedule was out in effect and hereafter 10 and 30 cent prices will prevail, these will include war tax. When special features are brought here the price will be 10 and 40 cents.

WOULD FORECLOSE

"Believe Me Xantippe" Will Be Winner

(Contributed by Troope's Publicity Man)

Have you seen Pat Connolly's hair cut, or Jimmie Busche's grin?
Have you seen the nice stiff whiskers growing on Nathan's chin?
Has anyone borrowed your wash-pan or asked you for a gun?
Or has Merle Iversen limped in and asked to borrow a blanket—just in fun?
Did you see Pauline Benjes and Susie Bowman
Hold up a man in broad day light?
Well you will see them all in the play "Believe me Xantippe"—Next Monday night.

This is the last week for you to READ about the big play, next Monday you will have a chance to SEE it and decide for yourself whether or not it is the best play we have ever had in Ukiah.

Have you ever heard a joke four times and liked it best the fourth time? The long hours of practice the cast puts in usually tires them of a play. This cast has had their play four weeks and yet "they get more kick out of it all the time."

There Is A Serious Strain to

So much for the humor of the play. Their is food for serious thought as well. You get the atmosphere of a small western town and the chance to study a group of oddly contrasted characters under circumstances calculated to bring out the REAL values of life. A "tenderfoot" comes west in the guise of a criminal and chance brings him into the society of two real criminals. In the company of Dolly, Martha, Sheriff Kamman, Wrenn and Hulda we watch their varying reactions to the forces of law and order—and what a comical set of reactions they are we leave you to "find out."

DEPUTY SALISBURY HERE

Deputy Internal Revenue Collector George Salisbury is in town and will be here until the last of the week. Mr. Salisbury comes to assist people in making out their income tax papers. George Salisbury is a prime favorite with everyone hereabouts and his countless friends keep him busy receiving friendly greetings when he comes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Berryhill, Mrs. Mary Ackerman and Miss S. Ackerman enjoyed an outing in Lake county Sunday.

HAVE A SON

Dr. L. K. Van Allen recorded the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. R. Robertson of Ukiah, Friday, March 9.

Mrs. John Butts was called to San Jose last week by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Watson.

F. A. Yates went to Lake County Tuesday on business of the Farm Bureau Marketing Exchange.

"The Young Rajah," State Theatre Feature

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week, the special attraction, "The Young Rajah," featuring Rudolph Valentino, will be shown at the State Theatre. "The Young Rajah," Valentino's latest and last picture for some time is the most spectacular of any in which he has yet appeared.

Starting in America, at a boat race between Yale and Harvard it wends its way through countless scenes of love and grandeur to maginficent palaces of Ancient India. Wanda Hawley plays the part of the girl and as such does wonderful work in this picture. This is a picture that will long be remembered.

Carl Purdy, whose fame as a bulb specialist and flower authority is country-wide, was in San Francisco during the past week on personal business.

THANKS TANLAC FOR "SAVING LIFE"

MRS. BURNETT DECLARES IT COMPLETELY OVERCAME STOMACH TROUBLE OF MANY YEARS STANDING

Many wonderful endorsements have been given Tanlac, but one of the most remarkable yet published was given by Mrs. Adah Burnett, esteemed resident of 1562 Clardina St., Los Angeles, Cal., recently.

"I certainly can recommend Tanlac with all my heart," said Mrs. Burnett, "for I have every reason to believe that the medicine saved my life.

"Ever since I was a child, I have been sickly. It began when I was thirteen and had a serious affliction for which I was given very strong medicines, and I believe it was this rigorous treatment that left me with a bad stomach. At any rate, my stomach kept troubling me and I was much afraid several times in later years that my day had come. Before getting Tanlac I was bedfast for a month.

"After taking the medicine for just a week, I noticed quite a marked improvement in my condition, so I kept on until I am now feeling like a new person in ever way."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.—Advt.

A BREAKFAST CEREAL FOR CHILDREN ON THE GO AND GROW

"-and a merry young soul is he"

The real dictator of food likes and dislikes in your household is (come now, 'fess up!) that sprightly youngster of yours. Catering to the whims of this lovable little ruler is a matter of concern to every mother.

To have this merry young soul call for his bowl of Germea, early and often, is a mighty good sign. A sign of good cheer and good nourishment. For Germea contains the germ, the vital part, the life of the wheat.

Let your children have this tasteful breakfast cereal as often as they like—and be thankful! Nothing could be better for them. Say Germea to your grocer—he'll know!

Ask your grocer also for Encore Pancake Flour and other members of the Sperry (Red Package) Cereal Family.
